You, the Appleton High School students of 1956 are the theme of this year's "Clarion."

1956 . . . the year of knee socks, Bermuda shorts, charcoal gray and pink, the den, studying at the library . . . these were all part of your school year.

Your days were full; you were busy every minute, and you loved it.

The ideals you had been taught to uphold suddenly took on a new meaning. The future lay before you, big . . . inviting . . . unlimited.

This book goes a little way in the telling of your story—a great story filled with the spirit and life of youth—the youth of 1956.

They administer, guide

Achievement of an efficient administration in the school system is the goal of Mr. John P. Mann, superintendent of schools. Capable assistance in solving the complex issues that confront the schools is rendered by the Board of Education.

The responsibility of running the high school rests in the experienced hands of Mr. Herbert Helble, principal. He is constantly presented with problems large and small, and disposes of all of them with equal vigor, inspiring faculty and students alike.

Mr. Werner Witte, assistant principal, is also to be credited with the fine administration and progress of the school. Acting as dean of boys, managing the athletic department, and teaching in the social science department comprise his many duties.

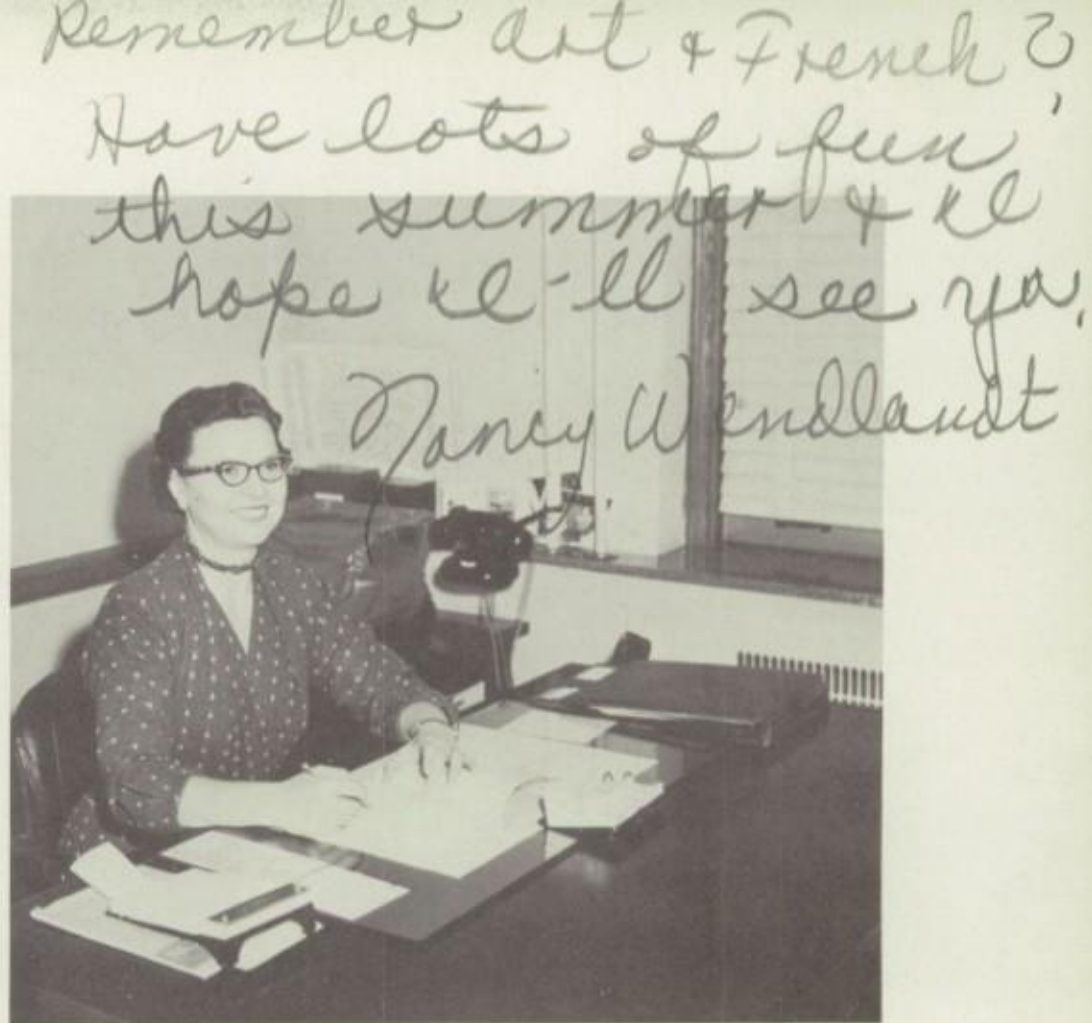

A cheerful greeting and a pleasing personality characterize Miss Annabelle Wolf, dean of girls. She never overlooks a student in need and is ever

Your faculty—

ENGLISH

The understanding, use, and appreciation of the English language are brought to the students through the English department.

English is a compulsory subject in the sophomore and junior years. During this time, students gain the ability to express themselves orally and in writing. During their junior year, a study of American literature instills in them a greater appreciation of their American heritage.

Classroom libraries are used to acquaint the students with a wide range of reading materials. Time spent in reading current publications introduces them to valuable sources of information.

In their senior year, students may select either a college-preparatory or a general English course. The latter offers a furthering of English knowledge to those who do not intend to go on to school. Included in the college-preparatory course is the study of literary works of well-known English authors. Students also review grammar and letter-writing and do extensive work in composing themes and term papers.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

A class in industrial arts can lay the foundation for a worthwhile future, an interesting vocation or a hobby. A student may prepare for a career in many and varied fields. Courses in auto mechanics, mechanical drawing, printing, cabinet making and iron work provide valuable experiences and opportunities for students to develop special aptitudes and interests.

SCIENCE

In this atomic age, the need for understanding the various fields of science is of utmost importance to students. Through the science department this need is fulfilled. In the sophomore year students are introduced to science through biology, a required subject. This course gives students a better understanding of plants, animals, and man and introduces them to the interesting world of science. This interest often leads to further study in chemistry, concerned with the chemical changes of matter, and physics, the study of the physical changes of matter.

Your futures— SOCIAL SCIENCE

The social science department prepares students for their future as citizens. All juniors are required to take American history. Through this course they learn about their own country's government, customs and ways. Further courses are offered in world geography, economics, world history, psychology, and sociology.

This year the social science department presented a new opportunity to the students in offering a five-day trip to Washington D.C. This educational excursion took place during the Christmas holidays.

LANGUAGES

Languages, among the elective subjects in our school, are chosen by many students preparing for college. Appleton High School offers Latin, French, German and Spanish, giving the students the opportunity to gain a knowledge of another language besides their own. A study of the history and culture of these countries also becomes a valuable part of each course.

In the well-rounded program of the physical education department, students are taught the values of good health and good sportsmanship. From the wide variety of activities, they learn not only the importance of their physical welfare but skills in many sports as well. HOME ECONOMICS

The home economics department offers interesting subjects to aid in the formation of tomorrow's homemakers. All students are taught the development of good taste and may pursue interests in either cooking or sewing. A one-year course is also offered to senior boys in foods, clothing, finances, and the duties of a host.

COMMERCIAL

The commercial department gives students interested in the business world excellent opportunities to learn the procedures of office work. Book-keeping, typewriting, shorthand, filing, and operating office machinery make up the outstanding program of this department.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics is designed to show students the value of quick and thorough reasoning and to acquaint them with many basic fundamentals. An introduction to mathematics is essential for college preparation. Further study is especially beneficial to students wishing to pursue such fields as engineering.

CAFETERIA

In the cafeteria, students choose food from the varied assortment prepared by the head chef, Mrs. Mabel Schwartz. With the help of Mrs. Beatrice Hansen and several students, Mrs. Schwartz is able to furnish a nutritious lunch program for as many as three hundred and fifty students.

The half-way mark featured "Seeing Double," with "Sailor Boys," "Indian Love Call," and "Rag Mop" following in the second half of the performance. After an hour of merriment, "Enter The Hero" and "Modern Dance" brought to an end the 1955 soph production.

HOMECOMING

A spirit of expectancy filled the air as the hectic weekend got off to a bang. Cheers, songs and witty skits sparked the Thursday pep session which began the homecoming weekend.

On Saturday morning, October 22, seventeen clubs and organizations combined their efforts in the traditional parade. Orchesis took first prize, with the band and cheerleaders sharing the second rating. At 1:30 P. M. everyone trooped to Whiting Field to observe the Appleton Terrors' thrilling 21-0 victory over the Fond du Lac Cardinals.

Another gala homecoming day was recorded in the album of pleasant memories as Kenneth Kramlich emceed the climaxing dance.

Curtain Call's productions of one-act plays opened with "The Willow Plate," a Chinese romance of Mung Chu Po and Cheng Loy Fah starring Mary Lou Hopfensperger and Rick McIntyre. They were destined by Tai Hoo Tso and Mung Sin Chee, played by Marilyn Bartmann and Tom Corbett, to be painted forms on a willow plate garrisoned by a dragon. Their love, however, vanquished all obstacles.

John Mullen portrayed the Mandarin of the Sapphire Button, Marge Helein, the bodyguard, Kathie Anderson and Marilyn Saiberlich, flower girls, and Margie Jochman, Kathie McKechnie and Marion Zordel, the dragon.

"Married at Sunrise" is a modern comedy in which Alex, a young GI, played by Jim Wink, proposes immediate marriage to naive Julie Brent, Karen Simenson, after a two week acquaintance. Julie arouses her parents, Jerry Lecy and Sue Briesse to announce she will marry the next morning and meets strong opposition from them as well as from her grandmother, Judi Beglinger. Julie's observant young sister, Anne Boronow, reveals the suitor's qualities as well as his weakness of lying. Alex returns to complicate his status by admitting his falsehood and temporarily loses Julie's precarious love, but finally is pursued by the repentant heroine.

Jim Wink apologizes for his lie, as Jerry Lecy and Anne Boronow patiently listen. "—Married at Sunrise"

Subtle humor personified the French composition, "In the Suds." Hen-pecked Jacquinot, Jim Zwerg, was forced to endorse an extended account of uncompleted tasks listed by his nagging wife Jeanette, Jean Voll, and his meddling mother-in-law, Sue Fowler. His revenge prevailed when Jeanette fell into a tub of sudsy water. Completely at his mercy, she swore to be the dutiful wife he demanded.

typically British guests, Bob and Ed, played by Daril Riley and Ken Kramlich, in "The Still Alarm." Repeated warnings from the unconcerned bellboy, Dennis Paul, and the appearance of the firemen, Dave Schuetter and Terry Ragus, did not hasten the guests' departure.

The success of these one-act plays was due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Virley Brown and Mr. Kenneth Sager, directors, Mr. Jack Burroughs, productions, and Mrs. Gene Nienow, make-up.

HUMOROUS DECLAM

On November 30, all signs of seriousness disappeared as mirth and mischief reigned at the humorous declamatory recital.

Margie Schmiede began the program with her original declam, "Madness with Mergatroid." Feeling the effects of a few "Zombies," Mrs. Mergatroid dreamed of becoming a number of famous people.

Sandy Laue presented James Thurber's, "The Night The Bed Fell." A noise awoke the household in the middle of the night, and everyone feared that the bed had fallen on father.

Marilyn Saiberlich's choice, "Brotherly Love" by L. L. Black, was the winning reading. It dealt with little Peter John who saw his older brother kissing a girl, and tattled to their mother.

Two young visitors of a mental hospital, each thinking the other a patient, presented an amusing situation in W. R. Walkers' "A Pair of Lunatics," given by Judy Polisky.

Judy Goehler presented "I Like Men," by J. M. Fonkert, in which she portrayed a high school girl who had decided on "men" as her extra-curricular activity.

The coach was Mr. Kenneth Sager.

SERIOUS DECLAM

With her stirring reading, "Futility" by C. Allen, Joanne Zimmerman placed first in the serious declamatory contest. The heroine of her story gave up the man she loved because of an insanity trait in her family. She later learned she was adopted.

C. Tazewell's "Uninvited" given by Janet Koller, deals with a small boy, Michael, whose only wish was to have his dog, Exodus, in Paradise with him.

Kathy McKechnie in "Yield to the Night" by J. Henry, portrayed Mary Hilton, a young woman convicted of murder, during the last hours before her execution.

"Gentle House" by A. Rose, the story of a small Latvian boy, was given by Nancy Goehler. The reading described the trials and tribulations Andris, the young D. P., had in accustoming himself to the American way of life.

The hatred between two sisters which came to a head when Abbie Blackwell tried to poison her sister, was vividly portrayed by Neal Dohr in "Undertow" by A. Wetherby.

Miss Ruth McKennan worked with this group.

DEBATE

"Resolved: That government subsidies should be granted according to need to high school graduates who qualify for additional training." On this resolution A. H. S. debaters presented their ideas and arguments.

Preliminary practice was begun in October and included reading, preparation of briefs and rehearsals.

Although long hours were devoted to research, discussion and practice, the time was well spent, for invaluable experience was gained by all those who participated in this activity.

The squad debated at Neenah High School in December and again in February at Two Rivers. This year, for the first time, the senior debaters judged several out-of-town meets. Mr. Hubert Wetak, who accompanied the speakers to these meets, was the capable coach of this year's debaters.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKING

The Bolton-Roth extemporaneous speaking contest had two first place winners this year, Bill Mielke and Mike Mathews.

In his talk "Israel, Hotbed of the Middle East," Bill Mielke said that by aiding the Israelian cause, the United States would bring the rival countries closer to a settlement.

"The Farm Problem, a Problem for All" was the title of Mike Mathews' speech. She thoroughly outlined several plans for the solution of the farm surplus problem.

The subject of Roy Stohlman's speech was "France Against Her-self," in which he stated that France's own political and economical policies constitute her worst enemies.

Don Call, in discussing "China, a Russian Maneuver," advanced reasons for not admitting Red China to the United Nations. Among others, he pointed out her disrespect for the principles on which the United Nations is based.

A plea against segregation was made by Mary Quella in her talk, "Segregation, Biggest Block to Brotherhood." She stated the need for a more varied curriculum for integrated schools.

Mr. Donald Exner advised the contestants in their preparation for this contest.

ORATORY

This year's winner in the annual Heiss Oratorical contest was John Mullen. In his speech, "Our American Legacy," he made a plea for conservatism, saying that the liberalistic "one for all, and all for one" attitude is causing a lack of ambition in mankind.

"Power" was the title of Bill Mielke's oration, in which he stated that the true power of America lies in the rights and privileges of the individual, and that this power is evidenced in religion.

Just as the atomic bomb can be used either for peace or war, so our personalities can be used for better or worse. This was the philosophy expressed by Roy Stohlman in his oration, "An Experiment Worth Trying," which stressed a need for positive thinking.

In Dave Otte's oration entitled "Dynamic Living," he declared a necessity for more optimistic thinking which can be achieved through development of our abilities and talents.

The fact that every driver is a potential killer and that accidents are needless was the thought developed by Ron Simon in his speech, "A Killer at Large."

Mr. Kenneth Sager coached these students in the preparation and presentation of their orations.

"Follow

"Follow the Dream" by Alice Duer Miller and Florence Ryerson, a two-act romantic comedy telling the story of the eternal triangle, was presented by the senior class on March 20.

Born of American parents in Peru, Joan Cameron returned at the age of 14 to live in the United States. She tried hard to make friends and to fit in, but the fact that two boys both liked her only made other girls jealous.

Spike, the handsome aggressive all-American boy, who represents security to Joan, and Ricky the irrepressible mild mannered, but adventure-loving Peruvian, both leave with the beginning of World War II. Upon their return, though she loves Spike, Joan has about reconciled herself to imaginary happiness with Ricky when the plot takes a last minute twist.

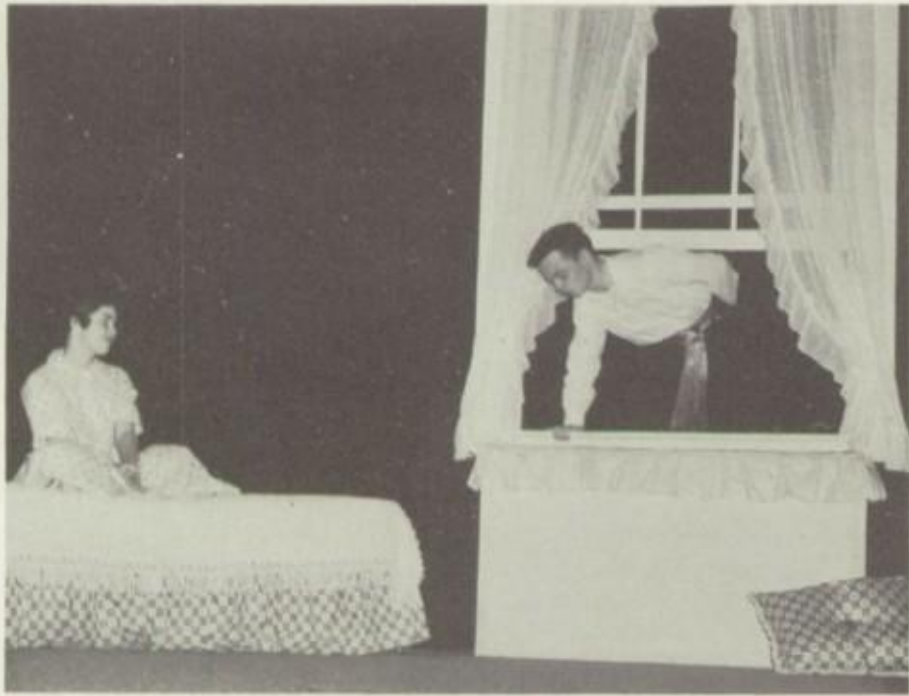

Spike will accept a position in South America if Joan will go with him. Ricky surprises all by announcing that he will live in America and become the "Rutabaga King." He cheerfully gives his blessings to Spike and Joan.

"No room in the inn"

The lights dimmed, a hush fell on the audience, and the curtain rose, revealing the first scene of the Christmas play "Come Let Us Adore Him."

It was Christmas Eve in an average American home. A mother and her small daughter were discussing the age-old story of the first Christmas Eve. In answer to the child's question as to whether the baby Jesus received presents, the mother began the story of his birth. The child fell asleep as the scene changed to the days of old, and we were again familiarized with the ageless and beautiful story of the first Christmas.

As daughter Connie Gardner listens, mother Carol Douglas begins the story of the first Christmas.

TALLY BUSINESS

"Talisman" owes much of its success to a fine business staff. This staff, under the direction of Mr. Bruno Krueger, is divided into three sections: business, managed by Dorothy Bartman and Janet Gresenz; advertising, headed by Mary Earling; and circulation, directed by Muriel Drier and Betty Schultz.

The advertising section secures advertising contracts which help finance the paper. The circulation division distributes the paper to students and other subscribers. The business section keeps a complete financial record of business transactions.

Besides making the paper possible, the staff gains practical experience in business and salesmanship methods.

CONCERT BAND

Accompanying the famed Rafael Mendez was an honor for the A. H. S. Concert Band, but it also proved beyond a doubt the ability of these high school musicians.

Proudly displaying new uniforms, band members marched in several parades and presented Christmas and spring concerts for both the student body and the public. Special attention was given talented musicians of this organization when they appeared as soloists at various programs. Hours of intensive practice were followed by participation in the district tournament in Green Bay. Graduating members were honored at a spring banquet which ended the year's activities.

Pep Band boosts spirit

PEP BAND

Pep Band has brought added school spirit to both the athletic teams and student body. Besides contributing to the enthusiasm of the crowd with their lively music, members of the band presented entertaining and original skits between halves of many home basketball games. Band members also executed difficult maneuvers and formations for the enjoyment of the spectators at football games.

Pep Band is an extra-curricular activity, and rehearsals are held after regular school hours. Students are chosen on the basis of their musical ability and willingness to participate at all times. This band was under the direction of Mr. Frank Comella.

Judi Beglinger accompanies Chuck Lemons, Liz Wehrenberg and Jim Tollefson.

The Appleton High School Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Lester Schulz, completed another successful year. Chorus, the largest of the vocal groups, was composed of boys and girls who earned credit for daily class work. This group also enjoyed participating in a concert for the veterans at King, Wisconsin and at the Sheboygan Music Festival, caroling during the holidays and performing for several civic organizations.

The student body, as well as the public, heard the excellent work of the chorus at the spring and Christmas concerts.

Latin Club meetings were a mixture of old Rome and of the present time. Togas, the Roman style of dress, were frequently seen in various skits presented during the year.

Activities of the club included initiation of new members, the annual mothers' tea, and a farewell party for all the graduating seniors.

LIBRARY STAFF

The Library Staff, an honorary organization made up of seniors, was advised by Miss Ethelwyn Baerwaldt and Miss Ruth Parkinson. Students for each year are nominated from the junior class by the present staff. A committee of the faculty does the initial screening on the basis of scholarship, character, extra-curricular activities, and the student's general attitude and behavior in the library. The final selection is made by the staff.

This was the first year that the library staff had an election of officers. Their president was Milly Bubolz; vice-president, Jim Coenen; and secretary, Joanne Zimmerman.

The art department created and constructed the colorful displays and bulletin boards. Other members of the staff were responsible for the library office work; care of the magazine room; upkeep of vertical file material; and charging in books as well as all materials returned.

The football picture last fall was interrupted by the local polio epidemic. The first three games with Menasha, Oshkosh and Green Bay East had to be cancelled because of the postponement of practices for several weeks. Thus, because the rest of the teams were facing similar problems, it was decided to run the conference on a non-championship basis.

The lack of sufficient practice seemed to be a detriment to the Terrors in their tardy opener against Green Bay West. The Wildcats took advantage of the ragged play which plagued the Terrors to take a 33-0 win.

In their second game, Appleton invaded Sheboygan North. This was North's fifth game. The contest ended in a 7-7 draw. The Terrors scored on a 35-yard aerial from quarterback Dick Odegard to end Jim Coenen. Jim Meyer, with his dependable toe, made good the point after touchdown. It was in this game that Appleton lost the services of regular offensive end Lou Horn, who suffered a dislocated left shoulder.

For homecoming, Appleton played host to Fond du Lac. The Terror gridgers won without any trouble 21-0. Passes from halfback Jim Schulze to end Don Schabo and from Odegard to Schulze set up two of the touchdowns. The other one came on a 95-yard pass interception run by Jim Fisher.

In their next game, the Terror ironmen ran all over favored Sheboygan Central 14-0. The post-game statistics showed that Appleton should have won by a higher score. Fullback Jim Kirkland slammed over from the two yard line for the first payoff. Lineman Hans Moede grabbed a blocked pass attempt on Central's one and hit paydirt for Appleton's second marker.

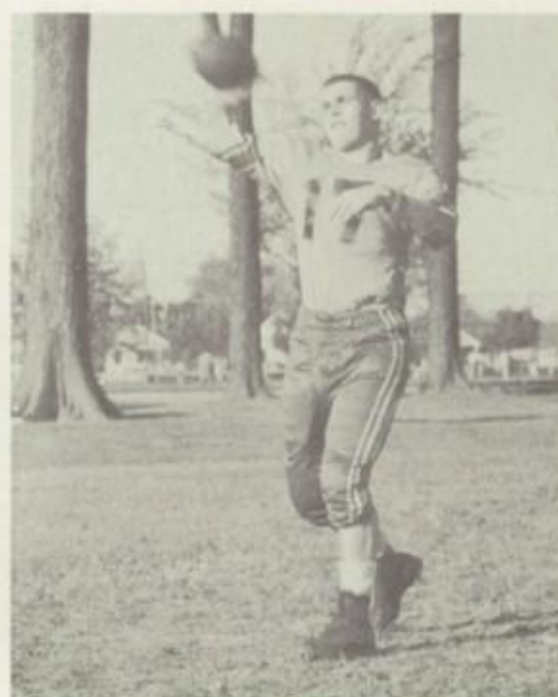

Appleton ended its campaign on a glorious note as it dealt the Manitowoc eleven a 13-2 loss. Manty had previously handed Green Bay West its only loss. After a relentless downfield surge in the first quarter Kirkland finally rammed over from one foot out. The second touchdown came when Schulze eluded some charging Shipbuilders and lofted a 40-yarder to Coenen, who sped the remaining distance. The Terrors gave up the two points on a voluntary safety.

In post season happenings, Jim Schulze and Mike Wenzel were elected to captain the '56 team and John Jooss and Jim Coenen were chosen as the most valuable players by their teammates. Jooss and Coenen were named on both all-conference teams and Louis Mueller and Jim Fisher won places on the defensive team. Jooss climaxed his year of honors by being named center on the all-state eleven. Coenen won a place on the second honor team as an end.

Future Lettermen

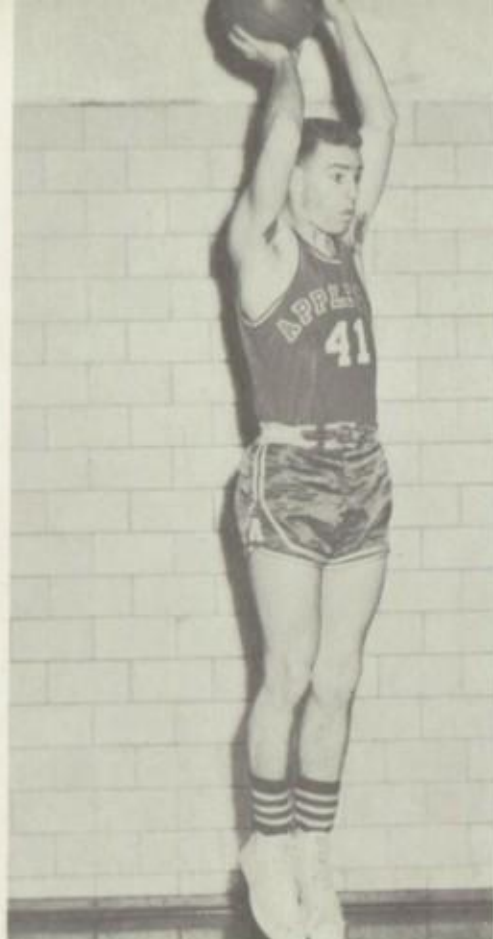

After having half of their season postponed by polio, the Junior Terrors were unable to hit the winning column, but in two of their three games, victory fell just out of reach. Under the capable hands of Coach Gus Ediger, the JV's encountered Kimberly in their opening game losing 13 to 7. Then against Neenah, the Bee's had an off day and were downed 44 to 6.

Bouncing back after this whipping, they played a good game against a strong Menasha eleven, but again fell to defeat on the short end of a 20 to 14 score.

Although their record did not show too much, this was a spirited team that would be sure to produce future lettermen for the Terror Varsity.

These are our Terrors, brilliant

To all loyal Appleton High School fans, the year 1956 will be remembered always as a story—a story of a team and a coach that went from "rags to riches." This is the story of the Appleton Terrors and Coach Dick Emanuel.

In the beginning there was great uncertainty, no returning regulars and only two reserve lettermen, but in the end there was glory, second in the state.

The Terrors, as expected, got off to a poor start, and it wasn't until the middle of the season that they began to win regularly, but a great team was in the making.

Among the ingredients were two immensely improved players, Hans Moede and John Jooss. Lou Horn and Jim Schulze developed into a pair of fiery guards. There was Jim Ray, a great forward, and a couple of soph sensations who, in the persons of Tom Verkuilen and Jack Ulwelling, were to pull their elders out of many precarious situations. Another factor which proved very valuable was a strong bench, led by Jim Godfrey, Mike Ulwelling and Dick Rehfeldt that was always capable of giving the regulars some much needed rest.

John Jooss*

Although the Orange and Blue were just another team in the conference, they had much to say about the final standings. At one point in the season, the Terrors eked out four straight victories to pull themselves high in the standings. One of their best games was an upset victory over Sheboygan North. Had it not been for a heartbreaking loss to champion Oshkosh, the Terrors might have finished higher than fourth place, which at that was better than predicted.

in victory, gallant in defeat

Then suddenly it happened, and as Coach Dick explained it, "They've just begun to jell," and jell they did.

After beating Kaukauna, the Terrors set out to conquer Kimberly, the state's top ranked team, in their own sub-regional. After 32 minutes of flawless ball, the Emanuelmen found themselves on the long end of a 63-57 score in one of the season's biggest upsets.

In the next game with Jack Ulwelling hitting for 23 points, Appleton rolled over Menasha to enter the Neenah sectional.

Opening the sectional, the Terrors walloped little Denmark, but the end seemed near. Their next opponent was powerful Green Bay West, fourth-ranked in the state. This was a team that had twice literally smeared the Terrors in conference play. The incredible Terrors, however, were not to be stopped; led by Jim Ray's 31 points, they blasted West right off the tournament trail. After the 5th year of resuming tournament play and for the first time in thirty years, the cry rang out, "Madison, here we come!"

On to "State"

A send-off from the cheerleaders.

The Madison story began with the Terrors in the familiar role of underdog against the top-seeded team, LaCrosse Central. Once again, the importance of a well-balanced team over a team starring individual performers was proven, as Central fell to the rampaging Terrors.

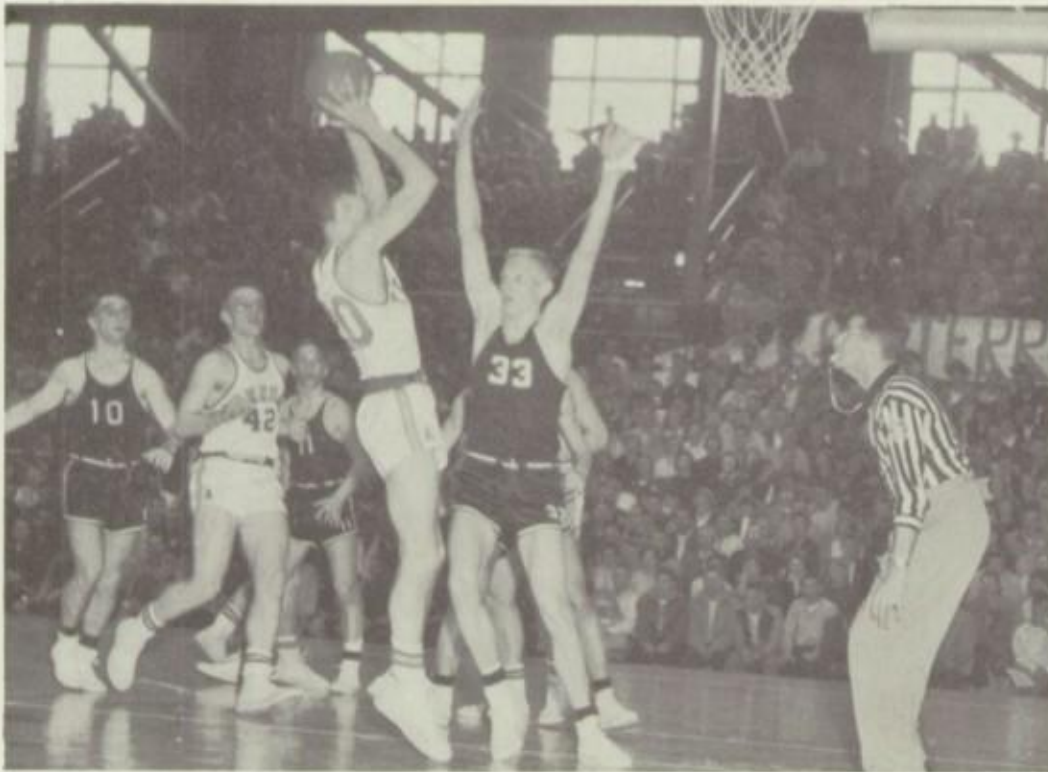

In the semi-finals the Orange and Blue squeezed past Kohler. It was not one of their better games.

Desperately trying against a superb Shawano team, the cagers just missed going all the way, and the sun had finally set on the terrific Terrors.

They had not taken the championship but had taken second place. This was a fitting honor for a great team.

Jim Ray, Jim Schulze, Hans Moede, John Jooss, Lou Horn and Jack Ulwelling were named to various all-tournament teams.

At their annual dinner the Terrors elected Lou Horn and Hans Moede honorary co-captains, and Jim Ray, most valuable player.

After Jim Ray's shooting—

Mr. Helble congratulates Terrors.

Champs—1957-'58

The Junior Varsity basketball squad minus Jack Ulwelling and Tom Verkuilen, who were promoted to Varsity after the first game, finished their 18-game schedule with a respectable 11-7 count. In league play, the Graffmen posted an 8-6 record which was good for fourth place. The Junior Terrors were right in the race for the title, but they lost their last four out of five games, which knocked them out of the contention. The Jayvees, studded with an all-sophomore line-up, suffered several of their losses to clubs which utilized juniors.

"It's a one way alley to clean fun and new friends" might be a good advertisement for the A. H. S. keglers who bowl every Friday after school at Hahn's Alleys. The officers this year were Dennis Daniels, president; Alan Laux, vice president; Dave Laux, secretary; and Bill Eastman, treasurer.

Aided by Coach Lawrence Witzke, faculty advisers, the members endeavored to improve their game and to promote good posture and physical control.

SATURDAY MORNING BASKETBALL

This organization is composed of energetic boys who are willing to rise early on Saturday mornings to play intramural basketball.

The club members played in two leagues, the American and the National, composed of seven teams each.

Coach Witzke, with his managers, Ronald Gurnee and Bill Borum and the club's publicist, Dennis Horn, worked to coordinate the program, to promote good sportsmanship and mental and physical health.

In the National league, United Commercial Travelers was the top team, followed by Ponds Sport Shop. In the American league, Market Men's Mutuals took first place and Schieder-mayer's took second. Bruce Kobs, playing for the Sherry Motor quintet, broke the league scoring record with 244 points. Second was Bob Helein with 192 points, followed by Dennis Horn with 153.

CURLING CLUB

Curling, originally a Scottish game, is fast becoming one of the most popular sports of the intramural program. Interested male students met every Tuesday after school at the Pierce Park Curling Shack.

The curlers were divided into six teams with a captain or skip at the head of each rink. Serving as skips for the 1955-1956 season were John McGowan, George Rehbein, Dave Otte, Jim Larson, Jes Asmussen, Tom Meyer, and Peter Akmentins.

The bonspiel, held at the end of league play, provided a fitting climax to the group's eventful season.

Curling Club was under the able direction of Coach Lawrence Witzke.

TUMBLING CLUB

Parallel bars, flying rings, mats and the trampoline are the "tools of the trade" in the Tumbling Club. Every Monday after school, Coach David Black and his agile tumblers met in the gym for a workout on this gymnastic equipment.

The trampoline, the most novel of the tumblers' equipment, enables a tumbler to do innumerable tricks similar to those of a diver on a diving board. Other stunts not employing special equipment are head stands, cartwheels, rolls, kips and flips.

The Tumbling Club provided thrilling entertainment for interested spectators who watched their exhibitions at the club's regular meetings and between halves of several basketball games.

The club, composed of girls and boys from all three classes, strived to promote health, body co-ordination and teamwork.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The twenty-sixth annual induction into the Appleton High School chapter of the National Honor Society was held on April 11. Twenty-two seniors were initiated at this time. They were selected from a class of 402 students on the basis of four qualities—scholarship, character, leadership, and service.

After the inductees were introduced by Mr. Witte, the society oath was administered by Mr. Hamann as the students formally became members. Mr. Helble presented the society pins and membership cards and spoke on "The Meaning of Honor." Mr. Edge explained the meaning of the society's symbol and ideals.

Each year a parent of one of the selected students is asked to give the address. This year the speaker was the former state senator, Mr. Gordon Bubolz, who explained the four points of honor. He pointed out that the recognition given these students would be a challenge for their future services.

After the ceremony, the traditional reception and tea was held in the Early American Room for the new members, their parents and the faculty.

Because of John's excellent class preparation and knowledge of Latin, he proved to be most worthy of this award. Included among his activities was membership in Nature Club and Student Council. His great interest in music has made John an important addition to the Band, Bandette, Pep Band and the State Music Festival.

BAUSCH AND LOMB SCIENCE
AWARD

Carol Joyce

As a result of her excellent work in the field of science, Carol Joyce is the recipient of this year's science award. Her experiment with nuclear emulsions won Carol a trip to Washington D. C., where she was named the only girl in the top ten of forty finalists and was awarded a $400 scholarship. Her many activities this year included being state co-president of the Junior Academy of Science, feature editor of the "Talisman" and secretary of Quill and Scroll.

BUSINESS AND
AWARD

Beverly Starks

Every year a $100 scholarship is given by the Business and Professional Women's Organization to a senior girl who intends to go into business or a profession. Beverly Starks is well-qualified for this award since she plans to be a teacher. She was a member of Curtain Call Production, Chorale, and Latin Club, and served as treasurer of Camera Club during her senior year. Beverly's desire to serve and her cheerful, friendly personality make her an excellent choice for this award.

John Jooss

John Jooss, chosen as this year's outstanding athlete, was given the American Legion Athletic Award presented by the Johnston-Blessman Post Number 38. John has shown evidence of his athletic ability in three sports: football, where he was chosen for the state team; track, co-captain of the team; and basketball, in which he set a percentage record at the state tournament. In his junior year John served on the Student Council and went to Badger Boys' State.
